9. The checklist as an excel spreadsheet should look like this.

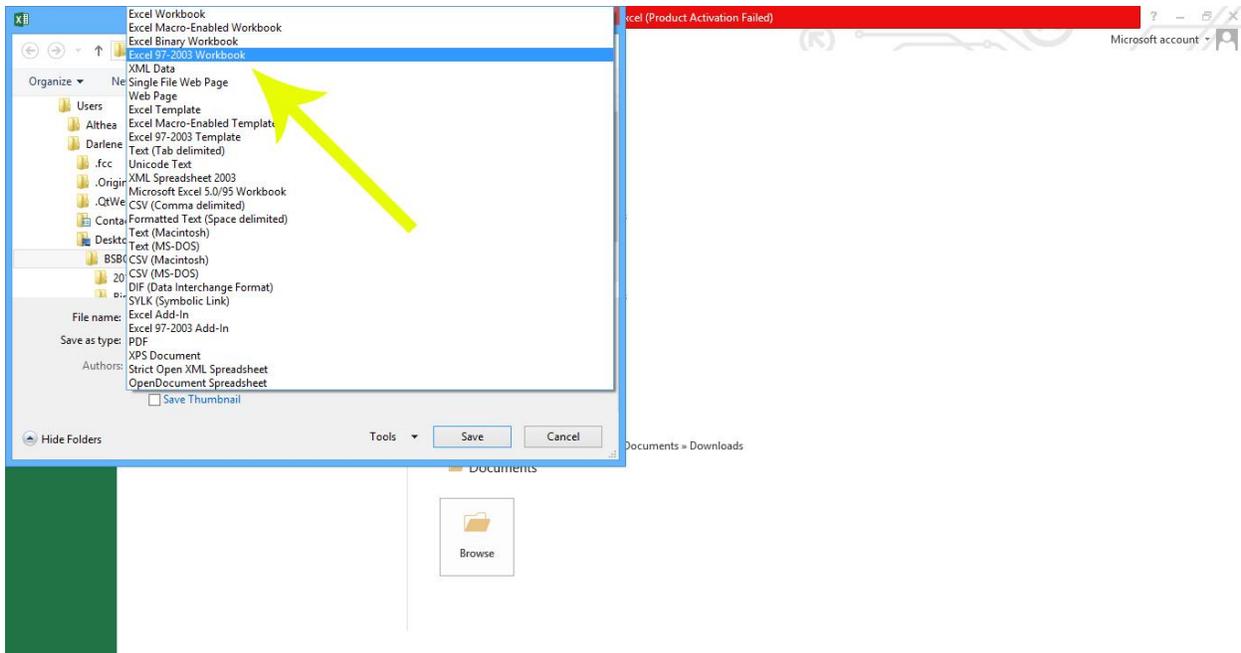

10. Click "File" then select "Save As."

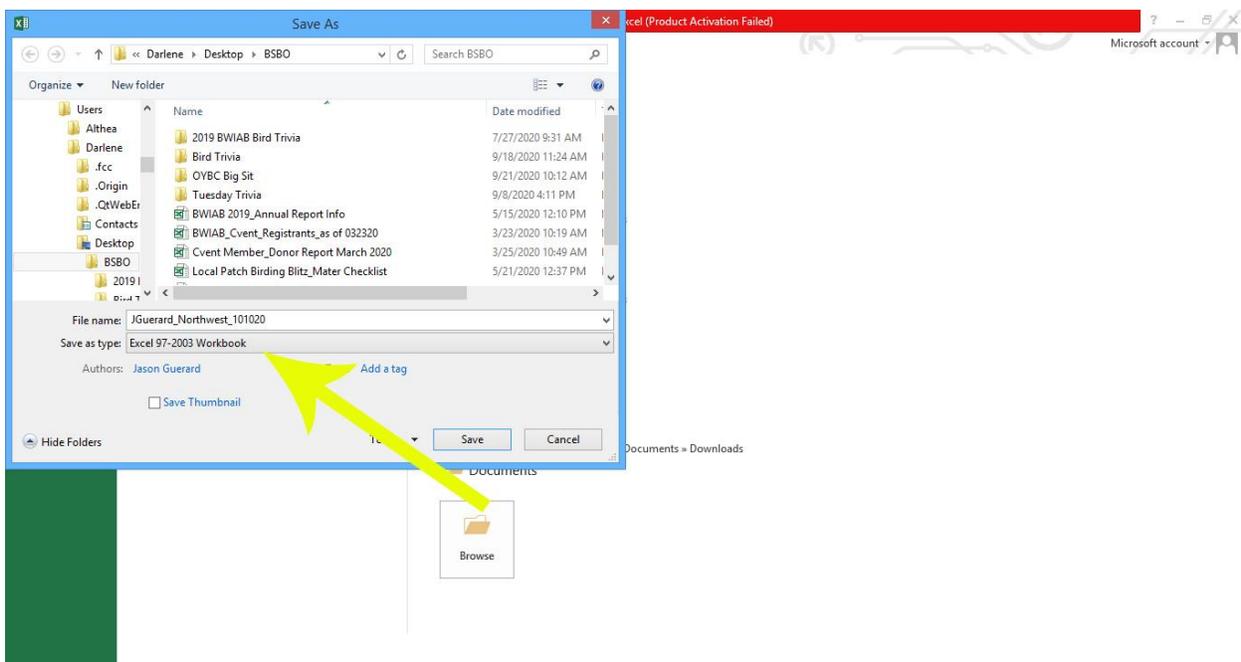

11. Save the spreadsheet with the following file naming protocol "Observer name_OYBC Chapter_Date."

12. Here is an example of what the file name should look like using the naming protocol

13. Change the “Save as type” to “Excel 97 – 2003 Workbook” before saving.

14. This is what it should look like after changing the “Save as type” before saving.

15. Click Save.

16. Email each excel file created (remember you should have one for each checklist you submitted to eBird for the OYBC Big Day.

17. Attach excel files to an email and send to jasonguerard@bsbo.org.

Converting eBird checklists to excel spreadsheets for Mac

The screenshot shows the 'Save As' dialog box in Microsoft Excel. The 'Save As' field contains 'JGuerard_Northwest_101020'. The 'Where' field is set to 'Downloads'. The 'Format' dropdown is set to 'Excel 97-2004 Workbook (.xls)'. A yellow arrow points to the 'Format' dropdown. The background shows an Excel spreadsheet with columns for Species, Count, Location, Observation, and Date. The spreadsheet contains data for various bird species like Snow Goose, Greater White, Cackling Goo, Canada Goose, Mute Swan, Trumpeter Swan, Tundra Swan, Wood Duck, Gadwall, American Wigeon, Mallard, American Black Duck, Northern Pintail, Green-winged Teal, Redhead, Ring-necked Plover, Lesser Scaup, Greater/Lesser Scaup, Bufflehead, Wild Turkey, Mourning Dove, Sandhill Crane, Killdeer, Turkey Vulture, Northern Harrier, Sharp-shinned Hawk, Bald Eagle, Red-shouldered Hawk, Red-tailed Hawk, Barred Owl, Downy Woodpecker, Pileated Woodpecker, and American Kestrel.

1. The process for logging in to eBird, electing "My eBird" and selecting the appropriate checklist, is the same for Mac and Windows. Follow steps 1 – 12 as above.
2. For Mac, change the file "Format" to "Excel 97 – 04 Workbook" before saving.
3. Click Save.
4. Email each excel file created (remember you should have one for each checklist you submitted to eBird for the OYBC Big Day).
5. Attach excel files to an email and send to jasonguerard@bsbo.org.
